HEWLETT PACKARD

Rich, black toner can make your documents look great. As long as it stays where it belongs–away from places that are supposed to be white. Like margins. The middle of e's and a's. Or the space between the stem and dot of an i.

When you use HP LaserJet toner cartridges you get black blacks and white whites. No compromises. Because everything that goes into the cartridge, from the toner formula to the quality components, is designed to work specifically with your HP LaserJet printer to give you the best print quality possible.

GLEN TAYLOR

OWNER

On March 23, 1995, Glen Taylor closed the deal that made him majority owner of the Minnesota Timberwolves. He added the title of NBA franchise owner to a list that already includes international businessman, state senator, entrepreneur, philanthropist and executive of the year.

Before he even completed his first full season as owner, Taylor set in motion his plan for making a mark on the Minnesota sports scene. Prior to the completion of the sale of the team from Marv Wolfenson and Harvey Ratner, Taylor had installed Rob Moor and Roger Griffith as the team's new president and chief financial officer, respectively, and promoted Minnesota and NBA basketball legend Kevin McHale to assistant general manager. With the move of McHale to vice-president of basketball operations and the addition of general manager (and now head coach) Phil Saunders and director of scouting and player development (and now assistant coach) Jerry Sichting, Taylor has assembled a basketball staff with years of experience in the pro ranks.

Taylor, 55, is CEO and Chairman of the Board of Taylor Corporation, located in Mankato, Minn., 75 miles southwest of the Twin Cities. The Taylor companies, which are involved in the printing, marketing, office supply and electronics industries, include more than 70 operating divisions in 12 states, three Canadian provinces, the United Kingdom and Mexico. Their employees number more than 8,000, including more than 5,000 Minnesotans. Taylor also owns Taylor Bancshares, which includes six banks in Minnesota.

Taylor built his company from modest beginnings. While a student at Mankato State University in 1959, he took a part-time job at Carlson Wedding Service. Fifteen years later, in 1974, he acquired a majority interest in the company, laying the foundation for what would soon grow into Taylor Corporation. Taylor Corporation is the nation's largest printer of wedding invitations, controlling more than half that market. Many of the companies' products are sold through independent vendors such as gift and stationery stores.

Taylor's business savvy was recognized by Corporate Report magazine, which honored him as its 1987 Executive of the Year.

Taylor was elected to the Minnesota Senate in 1980, where he served until 1990. He became assistant Senate minority leader in 1982. From 1984 to 1986, he served as Senate minority leader. While in the Senate, Taylor was instrumental in providing leadership in the areas of higher education, child care and economic development policies.

Through personal involvement, Taylor has remained active in many civic and charitable causes. In Mankato, he has served as YMCA President, Chamber of Commerce Director, Mankato Jaycees President and United Way Campaign Chairman. He has also served on his church's board of deacons and board of trustees

MINNESOTA TIMBERWOLVES

ROB MOOR

PRESIDENT

In just two seasons, Rob Moor has led the charge of the Timberwolves in a new and aggressive direction. With his sights set on turning the Timberwolves into the dominant sports franchise in the region, Moor is focused on increasing the team's broadcast presence, creating affordable ticket prices and building the team's community involvement. To highlight this progressive new direction, the team unveiled a new logo in May, 1996, the design and implementation of which was spearheaded by Moor.

"Sports is the most compelling form of entertainment," said Moor. "No other medium can generate the loyalty and fan affinity that team sports can." Under Moors' leadership, the Timberwolves reorganized their sports marketing into a fully integrated system designed to be flexible and responsive to the consumer. "We must be consumer driven in all aspects of business," said Moor, "whether providing the most value for a fan's entertainment dollar or providing the best marketing solution for a sponsor, we must meet our goals by meeting our consumers' goals." This consumer-driven approach has paid off with a steady increase in paid attendance, the largest number of corporate sponsorships in team history and the team's first-ever sellout of luxury suites.

In his role as Wolves president, Moor is responsible for the day-to-day operation of the franchise. In addition, during his first season with the organization, he played an active role in finalizing the sale of the franchise to Glen Taylor and in Target Center lease negotiations with the city of Minneapolis and Ogden Corporation.

Moor came to the NBA after seven seasons with the National Hockey League's Los Angeles Kings, concluding his stay in the position of executive vice president. During his time with the Kings, Moor was instrumental in the development, formation and acquisition of several companies, including the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, Upper Deck Authenticated and MultiVision Marketing and Public Relations.

Moor, 41, began his professional career in the entertainment industry at MGM Studios, starting in the production area and moving to distribution.

KEVIN McHALE

V.P. OF BASKETBALL OPERATIONS

During Kevin McHale's standout career as a player in the NBA he was known for his deft moves around the basket. As the Timberwolves' vice president of basketball operations, he is attempting to make deft moves of another kind to build the Timberwolves into a playoff contender.

One of McHale's first moves came shortly after he was named to his current post on May 11, 1995 – he selected high-school phenom Kevin Garnett with the fifth-overall pick in the 1995 NBA Draft. Considered a bold move at the time, McHale and his staff were rewarded with an outstanding rookie campaign from Garnett. McHale also wasted little time in retooling the rest of the team's roster. He added seven new players to the opening-day lineup, including free-agent signees Sam Mitchell and Terry Porter.

Timberwolves fans place their faith in the fact that it doesn't take McHale long to excel at his job. In high school, he led Hibbing to the Minnesota Class AA State Basketball Tournament title game; in college, he earned first-team All-Big Ten honors in 1980, playing for the University of Minnesota basketball team; and in the pro ranks, he joined the Boston Celtics for three NBA championships, the first coming in his rookie season with the team.

McHale continued that tradition of quick successes with the Timberwolves, moving from special assistant coach in 1993-94 to assistant general manager in 1994-95 to his latest endeavor as vice president of basketball operations. In his role as vice president of basketball operations, McHale, 38, is responsible for the franchise's entire basketball operations department – overseeing player personnel decisions, scouting and the coaching staff.

In McHale's first season with the Wolves, 1993-94, he served as a special assistant to the coaching staff. That position utilized the experience of his lengthy basketball career, which culminated in the retiring of his pro, college and high-school game jerseys. In August 1994, he was promoted to the newly-created position of assistant general manager.

With the demands of his vice-president position, McHale relinquished his broadcasting duties with the Wolves. For two seasons, 1993-95, fans enjoyed the insight and wit he brought to his broadcast analysis on the Timberwolves Television Network. His unique style and perspective, combined with the talents of Kevin Harlan, Chad Hartman and Tom Hanneman, made for one of the top local broadcasts in the NBA.

Prior to coming to the Timberwolves organization, the future hall of famer played 13 seasons for

PHIL "FLIP" SAUNDERS

GENERAL MANAGER/HEAD COACH

After seven seasons as a coach in the Continental Basketball Association (CBA), Phil Saunders was named general manager of the Timberwolves on May 11, 1995. But his stay in a front-office-only capacity was to be short-lived. On Dec. 18, 1995, Saunders added the title of head coach, replacing Bill Blair.

Saunders, 41, guided the Timberwolves to a 20-42 (.323) mark in his 62 games at the helm. His 1995-96 squad set a team record for road wins in a season, equaled the second-best mark for home victories in a season, and posted the second-most wins in a season. He was also instrumental in the significant development of rookie Kevin Garnett.

Saunders ranks second all-time in the CBA with 253 victories. He began his CBA career in 1988-89 with the Rapid City (S.D.) Thrillers, then moved on to the La Crosse (Wis.) Catbirds for five seasons (1989-94) before coaching the 1994-95 campaign with the Sioux Falls (S.D.) Skyforce. He also served as general manager (1991-93) and team president (1991-94) of the Catbirds.

The Timberwolves hope Saunders' ability to turn around the fortunes of a franchise has followed him to Minnesota. In each of his three stops in the CBA he took a club with a losing record prior to his arrival and produced a winning record the next season.

Saunders' impressive coaching resume includes seven consecutive seasons of 30-or-more victories, two CBA championships (1990, 1992), two CBA Coach of the Year honors (1989, 1992) and a record 23 CBA-to-NBA player promotions.

Saunders began his successful coaching career at Golden Valley Lutheran College where he compiled a 92-13 record, including a perfect 56-0 mark at home, in four seasons. In 1981, he joined the coaching staff at his alma mater – the University of Minnesota – as an assistant and helped coach the Golden Gophers to the 1982 Big Ten championship. After five seasons at Minnesota, he moved to an assistant coach position at the University of Tulsa where he worked for two seasons before heading to the pro ranks.

Saunders was an All-America basketball player at Cuyahoga Heights High School in Cleveland. In his senior season, 1973, he was named Ohio's Class A High School Basketball Player of the Year after averaging a state-high 32.0 points a game. He continued his basketball career at Minnesota where he started 101 of his 103 career contests. As a senior, he teamed with Kevin McHale, the Timberwolves' vice president of basketball operations, to lead the Gophers to an all-time school-best 24-3 record.

Saunders was born Feb. 23, 1955 in Cleveland, Ohio. Phil and his wife, Debbie, have four children: Ryan, Mindy and twins, Rachel and Kimberly.

His broadcast resume also includes fill-in roles on radio and television with the Indiana Pacers during the 1990-91 season, commentating on various high school broadcasts throughout Indiana, and a pregame show for his alma mater – Purdue University – on WTTV-TV.

In addition to the valuable insight he gained during his four seasons of watching and commentating on NBA games, Sichting also acquired an in-depth knowledge of the game from his 10 seasons as a player in the NBA. He began his career in 1980 and spent the following five seasons with the Pacers, averaging a career-high 11.5 points per game during the 1983-84 season.

Midway through the 1987-88 campaign he was traded to the Portland Trail Blazers. He finished his playing career in 1989-90 as a member of the Charlotte Hornets and Milwaukee Bucks.

Novak's knowledge of the game, along with his keen ability to assess talent, is tapped to help acquire the top talent available. His duties of scouting games and evaluating pro prospects keep him on the road much of the season, traveling the world for future Timberwolves players.

Novak came to Minnesota after spending 12 seasons as the scouting director with the Detroit Pistons. He was a key contributor in the draft selections of Joe Dumars, John Salley and Dennis Rodman, players who helped the Pistons win back-to-back NBA championships.

Prior to joining the Pistons, Novak's background included 31 years as a player and coach in the Continental and Eastern Basketball Leagues. He began his career as a player-coach in Sudbury, Penn., in 1949, where his teammates included former Wolves general manager Jack McCloskey and legendary NBA coach Jack Ramsay. He also coached teams in Trenton, N.J., and the Pennsylvania cities of Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Allentown and Lancaster. He also served as director of player personnel/assistant coach for Budivelnik in Kiev, Ukraine from 1987-90. Budivelnik claimed its first USSR national championship in 1989 when Alexander Volkov, who later went on to play for the Atlanta Hawks, hit a half-court shot at the buzzer to win the game. From 1987-90, Karebin served as head coach of the Ukrainian National team.

Karebin earned a coaching degree from Kharkov Technical College and Moscow Institute of Physical Culture. Boris and his wife, Natasha, have one son, David.

He came to the Timberwolves after spending the 1993-94 season as an assistant with the Sacramento Kings.

Schuler brings more than 34 years of coaching experience to the Timberwolves, splitting his 15 seasons in the NBA between assistant and head coaching positions. He began his NBA career with New Jersey in 1981. From there he moved to Milwaukee, where he spent three campaigns working on Don Nelson's staff.

In 1986, Schuler accepted his first NBA head coaching assignment with the Portland Trail Blazers. In his first season, he improved the Blazers from a 40-42 mark the previous season to a 49-33 record and a second-place finish in the Pacific Division. The following season, he guided the Blazers to a 53-29 record and another second-place finish in the Pacific Division.

NOVEMBER (3-9)

After recording a league-best 7-1 preseason mark, the Timberwolves struggled at the onset, losing nine of their first 10 games. The lone triumph came in the home opener on Nov. 7, 93-92 over the L.A. Lakers, as Sean Rooks made a free throw with 15 seconds remaining to seal the victory. It was the club's first home opener win since the 1990-91 season. The Wolves lost their next seven outings before ending the month with two wins: 105-102 at Milwaukee on Nov. 26 and 121-98 vs. Vancouver on Nov. 28. In the victory at Milwaukee, Sam Mitchell and Doug West led a second-half rally as Minnesota overcame a double-figure deficit. The 23-point win over Vancouver was the third-largest margin of the season. Christian Laettner averaged a team-high 19.7 ppg and added 7.8 rpg, while Tom Gugliotta chipped in 16.3 ppg and a team-best 9.7 rpg.

DECEMBER (4-11, 7-20)

The season's second month brought a head coaching change. On Dec. 18, General Manager Flip Saunders replaced Bill Blair, making Saunders the fifth head coach in the team's seven-year history. The Wolves split their first six December contests, winning home games vs. New Jersey (Dec. 6) and the L.A. Clippers (Dec. 8) and claiming their first-ever road triumph in Atlanta (Dec. 12). Minnesota went 1-6 under Saunders to finish the month. The lone victory came at home vs. Dallas, 111-98 on Dec. 23. In that game, Tom Gugliotta had 20 points and 12 rebounds, while Terry Porter added 16 points and 10 assists. Saunders' first three defeats all came on the road (Dec. 19 at Cleveland, Dec. 20 at Orlando and Dec. 22 at Boston) by a combined total of 13 points. Christian Laettner topped the Wolves for a second consecutive month at 19.2 ppg. Gugliotta paced the club on the boards again at 8.8 rpg.

JANUARY (4-10, 11-30)

The Wolves showed signs of improvement in Flip Saunders' first full month at the helm. One of the highlights came early when they posted their first-ever victory over the Phoenix Suns, breaking a string of 25 straight defeats. Doug West's dunk with 33 seconds to go sealed the 98-93 win on Jan. 4. Victories over Sacramento (103-94 on Jan. 15), Golden State (98-88 on Jan. 17) and San Antonio (100-92 on Jan. 19) gave Minnesota its fifth three-game winning streak in franchise history. Rookie Kevin Garnett earned his first start on Jan. 9 at the L.A. Lakers, becoming the third-youngest player to ever start an NBA game. Isaiah Rider tallied a team-high 19.4 ppg in January. Christian Laettner averaged 18.9 ppg and 7.2 rpg for the month, and Tom Gugliotta added 18.6 ppg and a team-leading 10.6 rpg, the third straight month he topped the team on the glass.

FEBRUARY (5-9, 16-39)

Minnesota headed into the All-Star Break with a 13-32 record, posting back-to-back wins over Dallas (105-96 on Feb. 3 on the road and 104-92 on Feb. 5 at home). In the Feb. 3 game, Tom Gugliotta tied Tod Murphy's franchise record by grabbing 20 rebounds. Minnesota dropped a narrow 103-100 decision to Chicago on Feb. 16, in front of the largest crowd in Target Center history (20,214). Kevin Garnett dominated a three-minute stretch in the fourth quarter to lead the Wolves to a 120-101 home win over the defending World Champion Houston Rockets on Feb. 21. The next day, Minnesota swung a four-player deal with Atlanta, sending Christian Laettner and Sean Rooks to the Hawks in exchange for center Andrew Lang and guard Spud Webb. Isaiah Rider averaged a team-best 20.1 ppg, while Garnett, in his first month as a starter, averaged 11.9 ppg and a team-high 8.3 rpg.

MARCH (8-8, 24-47)

March proved to be historic for the Timberwolves. They finished with an 8-8 mark, setting a franchise record for most victories in a calender month. The Mar. 23 win at Houston (108-103) was the Wolves' 23rd of the season, giving them the second-best one-year total in club history. Kevin Garnett had an impressive month, recording season highs of 33 points (Mar. 27 vs. Boston) and 19 rebounds (Mar. 6 at Philadelphia). His 19 boards equaled the club's rookie record. In addition to the win at Houston, the Wolves posted victories vs. Charlotte, Miami, Sacramento, Vancouver and Indiana, and at Philadelphia and Dallas. The low point of the month came on Mar. 5 in Miami, as the Heat dealt the Wolves their biggest loss ever (41 points) in a 113-72 thrashing. For the month, Isaiah Rider paced the club at 21.4 ppg, including back-to-back 30+ scoring efforts (Mar. 20 at the L.A. Clippers and Mar. 22 at Dallas). Tom Gugliotta averaged 17.9 ppg and 8.7 rpg, leading the team in rebounding on seven occasions. Garnett averaged 15.4 ppg, 8.4 rpg and 2.3 bpg.

APRIL (2-9, 26-56)

The Wolves struggled in the season's final month, winning once on the road and once at home. The Apr. 5 victory at Utah (103-99) was the team's ninth road win of the year, eclipsing the previous franchise high of eight. The Apr. 8 win at Target Center over Toronto (115-101) was the 17th at home this season, equaling the second-best mark in club history. Minnesota then ended the season with a six-game losing streak. In the Apr. 14 home loss to Denver, Kevin Garnett set a franchise record for blocks in a season by recording his 122nd rejection. For the month, Isaiah Rider was the leading scorer at 19.8 ppg. Garnett averaged 16.1 ppg (on 57.1 percent shooting) and a team-best 8.5 rpg, while Terry Porter contributed 12.9 ppg and team-high 5.6 apg. Porter became the only player to see action in all 82 games for the Wolves.

INJURED LIST

A player transferred to the injured list due to injury or illness must stay there for no fewer than five games.

TEN-DAY CONTRACT

NBA PLAYOFF FORMAT

A total of 16 teams qualify for the NBA playoffs: the four division winners and the next six teams in each conference according to their won-lost record -- regardless of division. The first round is best-of-five games and each succeeding round, including the NBA Finals, is best-of-seven games.

In every series, the home-court advantage in the extra game goes to the team with the better record during the regular season, regardless of its standing in the division race. Thus, if a division winner plays a second-place team from another division that had a better record, the second-place team would get home-court advantage.

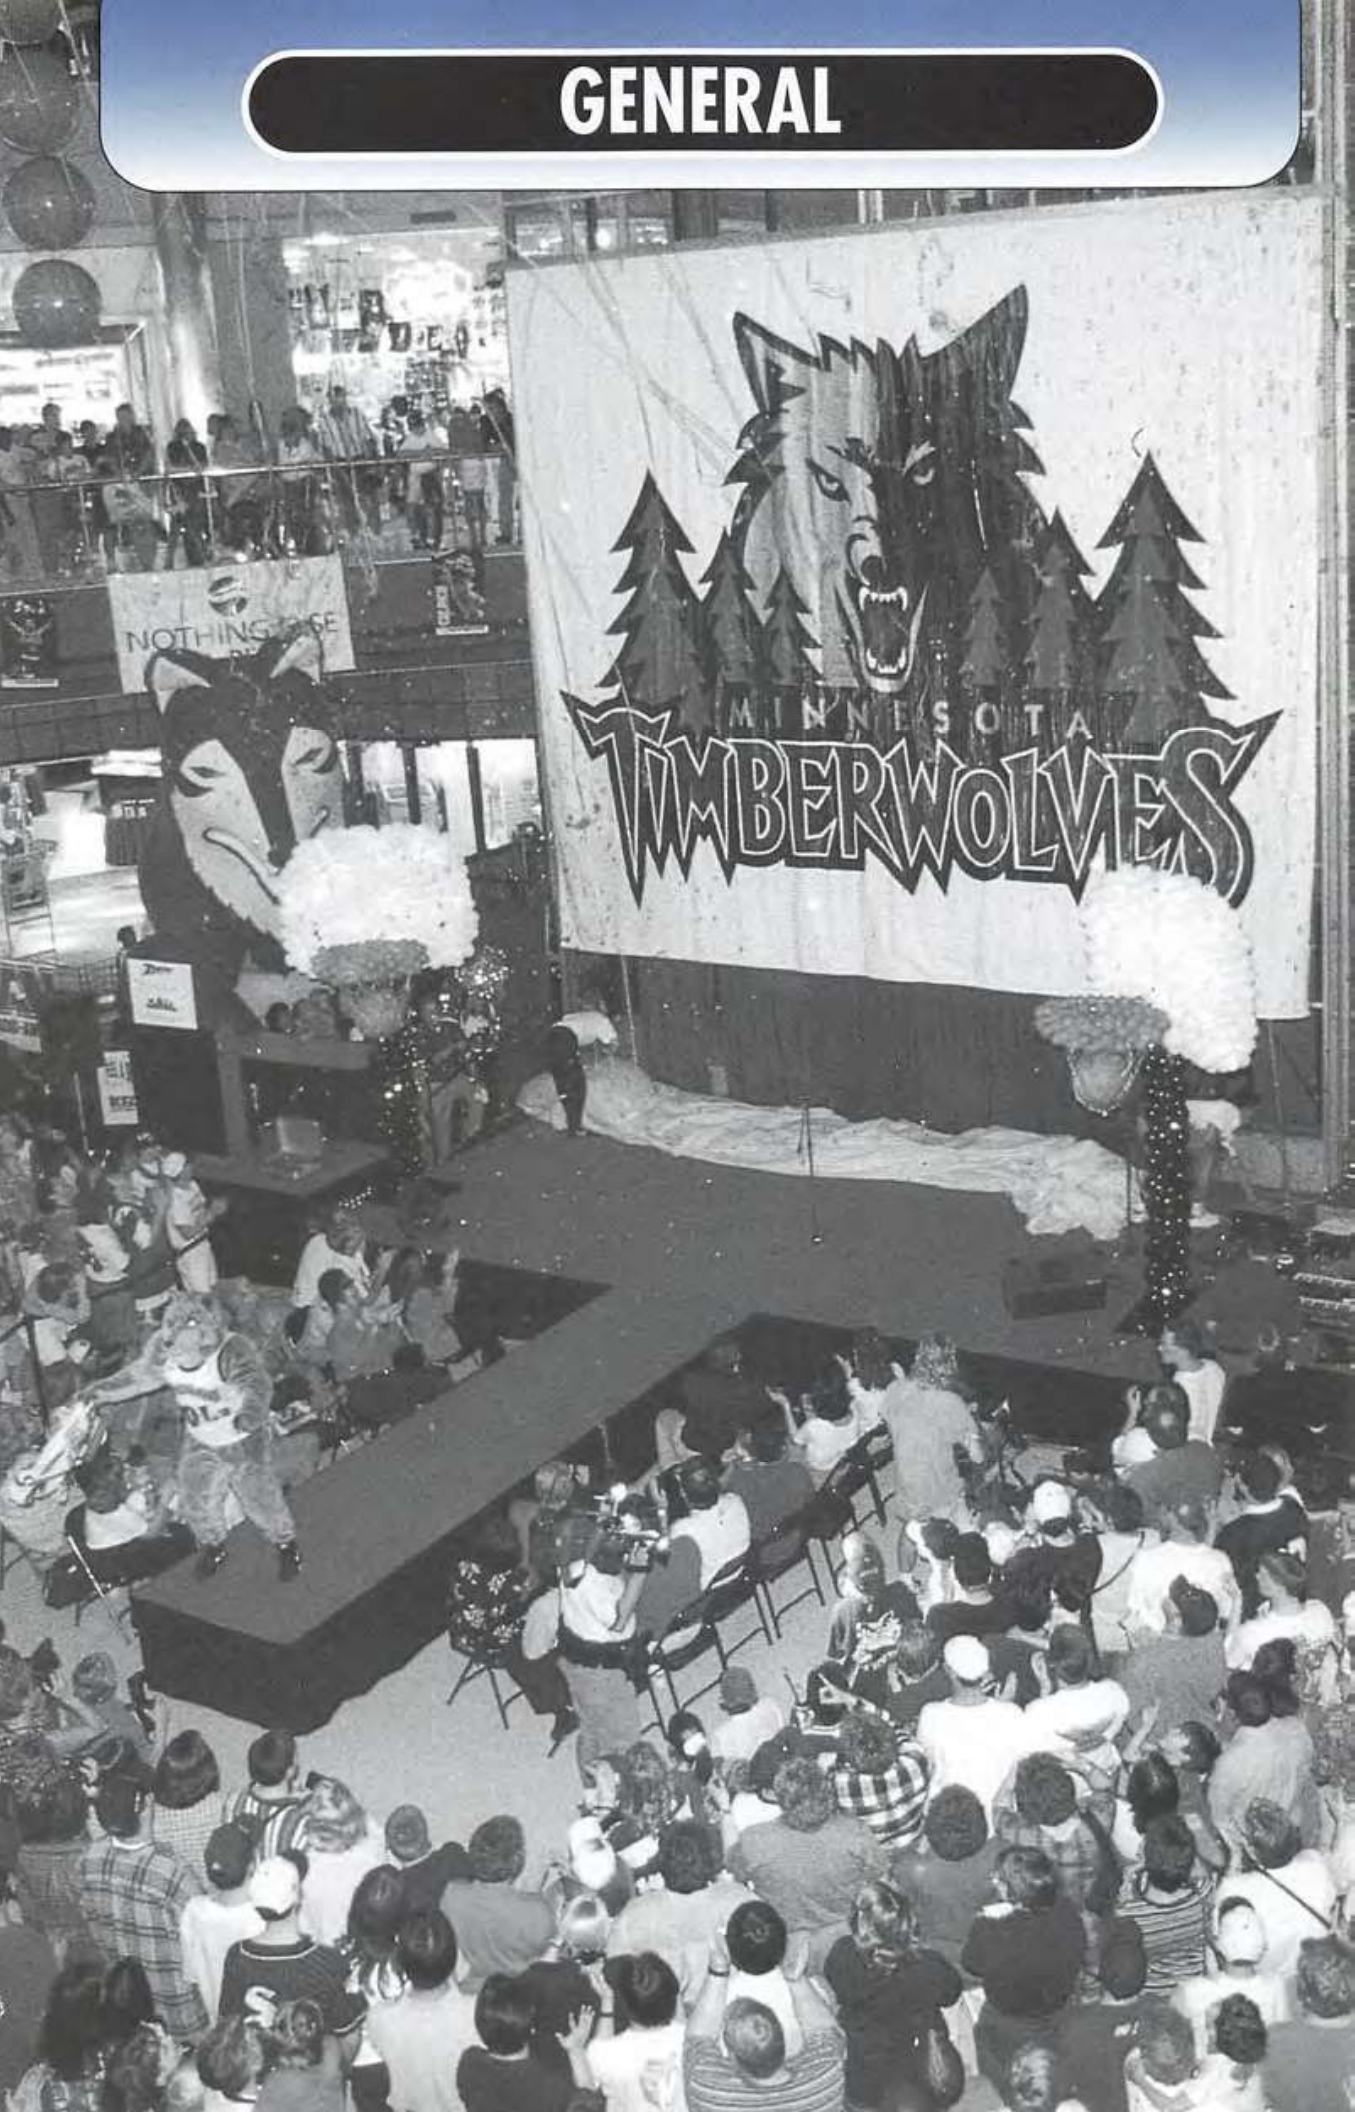
In determining the playoff matches, the eight qualifiers are ranked Teams 3 through 8 according to their records. The playoff pairings for the First Round are teams 1-8, 2-7, 3-6, and 4-5 in each conference. In the conference semifinals, the winner of teams 1-8 plays the winner of teams 4-5 and the winner of teams 2-7 plays the winner of teams 3-6.

The NBA Finals will be played on a 2-3-2 basis, the team with the better regular-season record getting the home-court advantage for the first and last two games. Other best-of-seven series are 2-2-1-1-1.

Some portions of the playoff format were revised in June, 1983. A vote by the NBA Board of Governors made the revisions effective in the 1984 playoffs. The major revisions included allowing 16 teams to qualify for the playoffs and changing the first-round best-of-three series to a best-of-five series.

NOTE: Team 1 in each conference is the division winner with the best record. Team 2 is the other division winner and Teams 3-8 are ranked according to their regular-season winning percentage.

GENERAL



COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

The Minnesota Timberwolves Community Foundation wants to positively impact the lives of the youth in our Minnesota communities, enable them to make responsible decisions and help them to contribute to their own future.

In the past year, the Community Foundation has initiated several new programs and has increased the scope of existing ones, such as the Timberwolves Stay in School initiative, Tickets for Kids, the Timberwolves Holiday Party and many more.

THE TIMBERWOLVES' R.E.A.L. PEACE PROGRAM

This summer, the Timberwolves initiated the R.E.A.L. Peace program (an acronym that represents respect, education, attitude and leadership). The program consists of summer clinics that revolve around real life challenges and decision-making. A youth council helped develop the agendas and encourage neighborhood participation, and each clinic concluded with community service.

STAY IN SCHOOL

The Timberwolves' most ambitious community program, this 6th-8th grade initiative incorporates 12 Twin Cities junior high schools and rewards those students who improve their attendance, attitude and achievement. Players, staff and corporate volunteers help implement the program in September, and celebrate its successful culmination at a celebration in April at Target Center.

DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING DAY

Once again in January, the Timberwolves will invite more than 5,000 students and parents to attend the MLK holiday home matinee. Prior to the game, a special celebration of the holiday, featuring players, music and speeches will be presented.

TASTE OF THE TIMBERWOLVES

The Minnesota Timberwolves hosted their second annual Taste of the Timberwolves fundraiser on October 27, 1996. This fun-filled, interactive event raised more than $100,000 for various charities and programs that target youth.

COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

GIVE-AND-GO SUMMER BASKETBALL LEAGUES

For the second consecutive summer, the Minnesota Timberwolves sponsored and supported the Twin Cities Give-and-Go Basketball Leagues. High school and college level men's and women's leagues are available to athletes throughout the Twin Cities. Also included are the premiere pro-am leagues - the men's and women's Howard Pulley Pro-Am.

HOSPITAL VISITS

During the holiday season, the players, coaches, front-office staff and Crunch visit several area children's hospitals in Minneapolis and St. Paul, spreading cheer and bringing smiles to many needy children.

HOLIDAY PARTY

In an effort to brighten the lives of many who are less fortunate, the Timberwolves staff and players sponsor a holiday party for children in the Twin Cities area. Kids and their parents are invited to Target Center, where they have a chance to meet some of the players and coaches. Food, gifts and tickets are provided to the children.

TICKETS FOR KIDS

The Minnesota Timberwolves donate more than 50,000 tickets per season to non-profit agencies, schools and shelters. Season-ticket holders also donate unused tickets to this program for distribution. This program allows individuals who normally would not have an opportunity to see an NBA basketball game the chance to visit Target Center. Individual and corporate grants for tickets are matched by Timberwolves players and the Foundation.

SPEAKERS BUREAU

Members of the Timberwolves organization are available to speak at various functions, to community groups or before charitable organizations. Our main topics of discussion include, but are not limited to, the team, personnel and the NBA in general.

BLUE CROSS YOUTH FITNESS CHALLENGE

This program was established to increase awareness of the importance of physical activity for children and their families throughout their lifetime. Called "Fitness Fever," this health and fitness program was designed for elementary school children throughout the state of Minnesota, reaching 400,000 kids in 1,100 schools. Rather than compare kids to high-level standards of achievements, this program supports personal goals and encourages kids to do their best. The Timberwolves make player appearances and lend their overall support to the program. The campaign is a collaboration between the Timberwolves, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Minnesota, the Minnesota Department of Health and the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning.

NBA COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

The NBA, its teams, players and coaches support programs dedicated to helping build a better future for all people, with a special emphasis on youth.

The 1996-97 season marks the debut of the NBA's league-wide community outreach initiative entitled the NBA TeamUp program. Its primary goal is to encourage youth to become actively involved in their communities. TeamUp helps young people develop an understanding of critical issues facing society and focuses on their ability to make a difference in the lives of others through community service projects. Program components include public service announcements, motivational visits by NBA spokesmen and players and a national youth service award. This season the league also introduces the NBA Sportsmanship Initiative, a program designed to recognize and promote the importance of sportsmanship on the court. The nationwide program, implemented by the NBA in conjunction with the National Federation of State High School Associations, targets high school student-athletes participating in basketball. Each year, an NBA player will be selected to receive the NBA Sportsmanship Award for demonstrating sportsmanship throughout the season.

The NBA also continues its support of Black History Month, CARE, the Martin Luther King, Jr. holiday, the National Committee to Prevent Child Abuse and Reading is Fundamental through a variety of community outreach efforts.

In addition, the NBA's 29 teams remain actively involved in supporting and implementing various programs that positively impact their local communities in the United States and Canada.

COVERING THE WOLVES

KEVIN HARLAN — PLAY-BY-PLAY ANNOUNCER

Kevin Harlan returns for his eighth season behind the microphone as the voice of the Timberwolves. Harlan has become one of the most recognizable voices in sports broadcasting, and his high-energy play-by-play style has been a Timberwolves trademark since the team's inception.

Harlan also calls a full schedule of NFL football games each fall, working his third season with the Fox television network as a play-by-play broadcaster. In addition, he calls the action for college football and basketball and championship boxing for the Mutual Broadcasting System. National broadcasts are nothing new to Harlan, who has worked with NBC, ESPN and TNT. His reputation, experience and national network presence continues to grow and is part of every Wolves broadcast.

In addition to providing radio play-by-play for the Wolves, Harlan, 36, will also call the action for all 30 televised games on the Timberwolves Television Network.

Harlan has been on a fast track to success since graduating from the University of Kansas in 1982. At the age of 22, he landed his first job as the radio and television voice of the Kansas City Kings, a job he held for two years until the team moved to Sacramento. The versatile Harlan spent nine seasons as the voice of the NFL's Kansas City Chiefs and also called game action for ESPN on the collegiate football level. Prior to that, Harlan called play-by-play for both football and basketball at the University of Kansas and the University of Missouri.

Harlan has also done play-by-play on NFL national telecasts for NBC Sports and covered the NBA's conference finals for the NBA radio network.

Born in Milwaukee, Harlan is the son of Green Bay Packers President Bob Harlan. His brother, Bryan, is the public relations director for the Chicago Bears.

TOM HANNEMAN — BROADCAST STUDIO ANCHOR

One of the most versatile and familiar voices in Minnesota sports broadcasting, Tom Hanneman begins his eighth season as studio anchor of the Timberwolves Radio Network and the Timberwolves Television Network.

Recognized for his smooth and mellifluous delivery, Hanneman is the only person in Timberwolves history to take part in every broadcast since the team's inception. Hanneman's talents have also received nationwide exposure. He worked four seasons as the studio host of NBA Radio, anchoring a 140-station network that features the All-Star Weekend, the NBA Game of the Week and expanded NBA playoff and draft coverage. In addition, Hanneman's NBA Radio work took him to Toronto to host the 1997 World Championship of Basketball for the network, and he hosted a weekly radio show for BBC in London that was broadcast in Australia and New Zealand.

Hanneman was already familiar to Minnesota sports fans when he joined the Timberwolves broadcast team in 1989. For the previous 16 years he was seen by Twin Citians as a news and sports reporter on WCCO-TV. Along with his NBA Radio visibility, Hanneman has also made an impression on the national scene with his coverage of the 1984 Winter Olympics in Sarajevo for CBS-TV, as well as his work for ESPN with marathoner Frank Shorter, covering the men's and women's U.S. Olympic team trials at the Twin Cities Marathon in 1987. A personable and entertaining style, with a healthy dose of wit, has been a long-time Hanneman trademark.

Born in La Crosse, Wis., Tom makes his home in Eden Prairie, Minn., along with his wife, Nancy, and their children, Adam, Courtney and Kyle.
